Who we share pupil information with

We routinely share pupil information with:

- The Department for Education (DfE)
- Schools that pupils attend after leaving us
- Schools / other education providers
- NHS
- Other Local Authorities
- Health and other professionals working with specific pupils

Why we share pupil information

We do not share information about you with anyone without consent, unless the law and our policies allow us to do so.

We share pupil’s data with the Department for Education (DfE) on a statutory basis. This data sharing underpins school funding and educational attainment policy and monitoring.

We are required to share information about our pupils with our Local Authority (LA) and the DfE under section 3 of The Education (Information About Individual Pupils) (England) Regulations 2013.

All information we share with the DfE is transferred securely and held by the DfE under a combination of software and hardware controls which meet the current government security policy framework.

The National Pupil Database (NPD)

The NPD is owned and managed by the DfE and contains information about pupils in schools in England. It provides invaluable evidence on educational performance to inform independent research, as well as studies commissioned by the DfE. Information is held in electronic format for statistical purposes. It is securely collected from a range of sources including schools, LAs and awarding bodies.

We are required by law to provide information about our pupils to the DfE as part of statutory data collections such as the school census and early years' census. Some of this information is then stored in the NPD. The law that allows this is the Education (Information About Individual Pupils) (England) Regulations 2013.

To find out more about the NDP, go to: <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/national-pupil-database-user-guide-and-supporting-information>.

The DfE is legally allowed to share pupils' personal information from the NDP with certain third parties who promote education or well-being of children in England. These may include:

- Schools
- LAs
- Researchers
- Organisations connected with promoting the education or wellbeing of pupils
- Other government department and agencies
- Organisations fighting or identifying crime

Organisations fighting or identifying crime, such as the Home Office and the police, may use their legal powers to contact the DfE to request access to individual level information relating to detecting a crime. The DfE typically supplies information on around 600 pupils per year to the Home Office and approximately one per year to the police.
